Usability tests for a new privacy tool

We are working on a new privacy tool.

We want to ask people like you to test the graphical interface that we are designing to make sure that it is really easy to use.

Don't be shy! It will be a great opportunity to contribute to a new privacy tool, even if you are not very technical.

The tests will take place online from February 8 to 12. Plan to stay with us for 2 hours. We will conduct the test 1 person at a time.

We will show you the interface of the tool on https://meet.jit.si/ and ask you to comment on it as if you were using it.

You won't have to install anything new on your computer.

We will give you 50 US dollars or 40 euros as a token of our thanks.

For any question, you can write to survey@irq7.fr.
